

Sherwood High School

Project Lead the Way Engineering Program

Sherwood High School is one of a select group of Montgomery County high schools that offers the Project Lead the Way Engineering Program. If you like science or engineering you should sign up and take Introduction to Engineering Design freshman year to see if the program is something that interests you.

What will you do in the class?

1. discover how engineering makes a difference in the world around them
2. discover how science can be applied to change the world
3. IED is also a tech-ed credit for students towards graduation

It is very important to note that if a student is interested in taking Introduction to Engineering Design next year and another program of study such as music, art, etc., email Mr. Lees (address below) or talk to your counselor about fitting in both classes. You can take both classes freshman year.

Please also take this form home to your parents, go to www.sherwoodengineering.org to find out more information or e-mail Brendan Lees at Brendan_R_Lees@mcpsmd.org with any questions.
